ALANYA

NO 1

ALANYA CITY

The castle has a citadel of 6.5 km length, 140 towers, about 400 cisterns. Doors with inscriptions and as an open air museum reflects Seljukian art at its best, The castle was built by A. Keykubat, the Sultan of Seljukians. The ramparts start from Kızkule, extend down from Ehmedek, içkale, Adam Atacağı, Cilvarda Burnu, Arap Evliyası Rampart and Esat Rampart and pass through Tophane and Tersane and end at Kızıkule at the starting point. The first construction of the castle dates to the Hellenistic Period, but in fact the construction took its fascinating and monumental form during the Seljukian Empire. The altitude of the part called “the Inner Castle” and located at the highest place of western corner of the peninsula is about 250 meters. It was surrounded by walls from four sides as it was the centre of administrative and military organisations. Two Seljukian period cisterns, made of bricks are located in the middle part of the inner castle and are still in good condition at present. Main buildings in the inner castle were constructed so as to lean on the castle walls, except for the western part. Sultan Keykubat had his palace built here...The settlement in the castle continues also today. In front of wooden and stone made houses, silk and cotton are woven, different figured calabash trees are coloured, authentic food is served in little gardens. And restaurants and cafes are located on the sea side on the way to the castle. The castle road is open to vehicle traffic. You can also walk to it in about an hour..
